

Miller & Rhoads.

Miller & Rhoads.

WEATHER FORECAST—Tuesday fair.

Children's White Lawn Dresses 50c.

New Russian style, with small hemstitched tucks on the waist, and hemstitched ruffles on the neck and sleeves. Not only is the Lawn of a fine quality, but there's at least half a dollars worth of workmanship on the dress—counted by the individual garment or two which mothers would have to make.

Long white slip of fine Long Cloth, neck and sleeves trimmed with dainty ruffles of embroidery 50c.

Miller & Rhoads

See Our Advertisement on Woman's Page This Evening's News Leader.

SWOOPED DOWN ON THE GAMBLERS

Twelve Negroes Fined Yesterday by Justice John. Long Docket.

Leading Justice John's blue Monday docket yesterday was a case against a cloud of negro men, charged with gambling in a house in Horse Alley. There were about fifteen in the bunch. At place was fined $2.50 each. They are as follows: Albert Chestnut, Alex. Griffith, Robert Jackson, George Hill, Thomas Williams, William Smith, Preston Owens, Henry Terry, Perry Hawkins, John Moody, Reuben Harris and Samuel Hobson.

The other cases disposed of were as follows: Henry Smith, charged with perjury, discharged. Arthur Slavin, drunk, dismissed. Laura Brooks, colored, drunk and in contempt of court; $100 security for sixty days. David Robinson, drunk and disorderly in traction, continued until 21th.

John W. Jones, white, drunk and disorderly; $100 security for twelve months. Sam Beades, charged with breaking and injuring property in barber shop; Mike Grand; dismissed upon payment of costs. Josiah Webster, colored, charged with stealing mortar boards from George Minor; thirty days in jail. M. Mahoney, drunk; fined $1.

John Foster, colored, charged with assaulting William Walke with brass knuckles, discharged.

Samuel Preston, colored, charged with cursing and abusing Francis Kenney; $100 security for sixty days.

FLOATING IN CANAL.

Body of Missing Negro Was Discovered Sunday Afternoon.

The body of a negro man named John Griffin was found Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock floating among the ice in the canal near Stump's cold storage plant. Griffin had been missing from his home since Monday, a week ago. He worked in a little shop at Eighth and Cary Streets, and on the day when he was last seen, went out to get some water from a nearby spring. The man had been subject to fits and it is supposed that an epileptic attack while working along the canal bank and fell in the water.

The corpse was remarkably well preserved, the ice and cold having kept it from decomposing. Coroner Taylor viewed the body, but considered an inquest unnecessary.

LENTEN SERMONS.

Bishop Preached First One Sunday to Large Congregation.

A series of Lenten sermons will be preached at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday nights until Easter by Bishop Van Griffin. The first of the series was delivered Sunday night in the presence of a large congregation. The bishop took for his text the gospel narrative of the temptations of Christ in the desert. He said in part: "The Saviour was tempted, not because He, the sinless one, was capable of sinning, but in order to give an example of how we are to overcome successfully the temptations of the evil one."

The temptations that await us are twofold—those from without and those from within. All of us are acquainted with both kinds. St. Paul refers to inward temptation when he says that there was given him an angel of Satan, a stinging of the flesh to buffet him.

"Unless we ruthlessly expose ourselves to the same temptations in themselves are not sinful. It is the yielding to temptation that constitutes sin. Temptations, if successfully resisted, redound to our merit."

"Our blessed Lord demonstrated to us by His example that one of the principal means we are to oppose to temptation

MAY REPEAL TOBACCO TAX

Strong Hope Felt for Passage of Either the Gaines or the Flood Bill.

PLANTING TWO NEW TREES

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Celebrate Washington's Birthday.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.—The bill for the abolition of the tax of six cents a pound on the sale of tobacco in the natural state is attracting the general attention of the members of the House from Virginia and North Carolina, and will receive their united and hearty support. One of the bills was introduced by Representative Gaines, of Tennessee, and one by Representative Flood, of Virginia. They are very similar, but Mr. Flood's bill provides that anybody may stem and twist tobacco and sell the same without the payment of the tax. Mr. Gaines' measure provides that only the farmer may so stem and twist and sell. Mr. Flood said to-day that he thought one of the bills would pass. He is not especially desirous of the repeal of the tax, but in preference to that of Mr. Gaines, as the object of each is practically the same. He thinks, however, that if the law is changed so as to allow any one to sell manufactured tobacco, provided that chemicals are not used in preparing for market, the effect would be that in his section there would be a number of small manufacturers started by other than the farmers who are raising the weed.

The farmers themselves are writing their representatives urging them to speed the repeal of the tax, and Mr. Gaines said to-day that they believed there was strong likelihood of the bill being passed. The bill will not be reported for some days, but when the postoffice appropriation bill is under discussion in committee the whole House on the state of the Union, affords opportunity for the discussion of any matter which it may please a member to bring up, and the advocates of the repeal of the tobacco tax chose to discuss it during the Gaines debate. The bill is a splendidly worded one, and it is the belief of many that his speech had a most gratifying effect from the viewpoint of the advocates of the bill.

Representative Jones appeared before the Committee on Commerce and Foreign Commerce in behalf of the bill which he introduced some time ago, providing for the erection of light houses at the mouth of Pungoteague, Chesapeake Bay, the mouth of Plankank River and at Ragged Point, on the Potomac. The committee will not report the bill until it has conferred with the light house board.

President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt observed Washington's birthday by planting two memorial trees in the White House grounds. The trees are fern leafed, and were planted in the area enclosed by the semi-circular driveway, immediately east of the Executive Mansion. There were two beautiful magnolias standing there, but they were cut down by some one's order about two years ago, while Mr. Roosevelt was having the White House made over to meet his ideas of elegance and beauty. The spaces which Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt used in the planting operation will be preserved by the superintendent of grounds and buildings, and at them will be planted a diagram showing the location of the trees planted. A great many trees have been set out in the White House grounds by Presidents of the United States, but owing to the fact that diagrams were not made at the time by which the location of the trees could be found, it is not possible to locate any of them, except by tradition.

NOT THE WOMEN.
Representative Shafroth, of Colorado, who created such a sensation throughout the country by resigning from the House upon discovering that there had been frauds in his election, said to-day that there was not the slightest truth in the report that he charged the fraud chiefly to the women, who have the right of suffrage in his State.

"Of the persons implicated very few were women, not more than one in ten, at the outside," he said to-day. "The frauds were committed in the lowest part of Denver, where very few women live. In Colorado the women vote as generally as the men, and fraud is much rarer among them."

WOOD NOMINATION.
It is thought that the Senate will take into consideration the nomination of General Wood to be a major-general as soon as the Panama Canal treaty is voted upon. The death of Senator Hanna removes the chief opponent of confirmation, but the advocates of the elevation of the doctor-general to a position which will put him in line to command

Women Who Know

Wine of Cardui has been so helpful to me that I feel it my duty to advise sick and suffering women to try this wonderful remedy.

MISS MARTHA HUBER,
505 East 88th St., New York City.

Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

MRS. WILHELMINA SNOW,
Treas. Economic League, Portland, Me.

Every woman suffering with female trouble should try Wine of Cardui, and I fully believe she will experience the same benefits and cure which I have.

MRS. L. A. AUSTIN,
606 N. 9th St., Kansas City, Mo.

My advice to suffering women is to take Wine of Cardui and they will never be disappointed in the results.

MISS LOUISE FINE,
125 Hennessy St., New Orleans, La.

WINE OF CARDUI

Hundreds of thousands of women whose advice is worth taking will tell you that Wine of Cardui is the medicine to cure all female diseases. These women are competent to give advice because they have been through the whole gamut of suffering, from incipient menstrual irregularities to bearing down pains, ovarian pain, leucorrhoea, nervousness, pains of childbirth and even the vital suffering during the change of life.

These women say Wine of Cardui will cure menstrual disorders, bearing down pains, ovarian pains, leucorrhoea, nervousness and hysteria—that this pure wine will rob childbirth of its worst agonies, and that the change of life need have no terrors for a woman who takes this great female tonic. Will you take their advice?

Secure a Bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day.

MEETING OF THE HUGUENOT SOCIETY

Annual Public Service Held Sunday—Dr. Knotz Coming Here.

The annual meeting of the Huguenot Association of Richmond was held Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Second Presbyterian Church. The attendance was large notwithstanding the extremely bad weather.

The chief event of the afternoon was an address by the Rev. Dr. Thornton Whaling of Lexington, Va., president of the Board of trustees of Union Theological Seminary. The address was an unusually excellent one. Dr. Whaling spoke on the subject "Missions and the Twentieth Century," indicating the various new forces other than religion that are operating to encourage and extend the missionary endeavor of the present day. Dr. Russell Cecil, president of the association, spoke briefly concerning its work, and a collection was taken up.

Dr. Jean Knatz, the representative of the Huguenot Society in Paris, gave an address on "Visiting Different Cities." He is expected to come to Richmond very shortly.

MR. FARIS CORRECTED.

Affidavits to Prove Statements in Regard to His Visit.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir—Mr. W. P. Faris, of Chase City, Va., has been charged with a statement made regarding his visit to Keyville, Va., in the Times-Dispatch. I enclose statements from each of the persons named in the article, which show the correctness of my statement in the Times-Dispatch. They follow herewith:

"I told Mr. Faris that I was not going to stop here; he said he was going out into the country. I told him to go and that I was not going to see him. I did not invite him to dinner."

"J. E. RUBANK, Town Secretary."

"I knew nothing of Mr. W. P. Faris being invited to my hotel to dinner; my wife knew nothing of his presence until he entered the dining room with a friend."

"Signed: JAS. W. WOMACK, Proprietor."

Mr. W. P. Faris and his guard, Mr. Henry, did not take supper at Murray's Hotel, and did not visit there to dinner as stated."

"Signed: H. A. MURRAY, Proprietor."

"Mr. W. P. Faris, of Chase City, came to see me and asked if he could stay here. He was invited to stay here, but he would go back on next train, which left at 3 o'clock. I told Mr. Faris that if he would be arrested, all we could do would be to send him back on next train, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the people of Keyville were indignant at his presence here and that I would be forced to arrest him and appoint Mr. Heasley to take charge of him. I told Mr. Faris that I had no objection to his coming here, but that I had no right to give him permission to go around town, and although I had no right to give him permission to go around town, I would advise him to go to see Mr. Passmore (with whom he said he had business), and to stay out of the way of people, and go back on 3 o'clock train. I told Mr. Faris that I had not left town; I went to Mr. Passmore's office and called Mr. Faris out and told him that the